Turk Leader Warns Foes

Arms Will Be Used To Halt Further Demonstrations

Istanbul, Turkey (AP)—Premier Adnan Menderes declared Sunday night he is determined to put an end to any further demonstrations against his government. An army communiqué warned that arms would be used to back him up.

Istanbul was under a 24-hour May Day curfew. Troops guarded the city in which foreign ministers of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization are meeting Monday for a periodic review of Western defenses against Communist aggression.

Menderes' statement was broadcast by the government-controlled national radio and followed another strong warning against disorder issued by the military commander of Istanbul. Both implied that army troops were prepared to use arms to put down any further anti-government demonstrations.

Party Blamed

Menderes claimed the opposition Republican People's Party incited last week's student riots in Istanbul, Ankara and Izmir "because the opposition is jealous of my achievements."

"Their chances of winning a new election are nil," he said, "so they embarked on a nefarious policy of inciting some 3,000 to 4,000 students . . . at a time when a major international conference was about to take place in Istanbul."

Foreign Minister Fatin Zorlu said it is possible there are Communist influences among the student foes of Menderes whose demonstrations have brought troops, tanks and martial law to Ankara and Istanbul.

Church services, movies, sports events and gatherings in restaurants and bars are out. The ban, effective for 3 months, was imposed after bloody rioting was set off last week by student demonstrators who shouted for freedom and demanded that Menderes resign.

So far, the Turkish public has shown no inclination to join in the demonstrations against the government, although there is discontent over the inconveniences of martial law. Red tape necessary for even the slightest function out-of-doors — such as buying bread — causes much grumbling.

2 Die As Cars Hit

... Near Wolbach

Lincoln Star Special

Wolbach—Nebraska's highway death toll rose to 64 Sunday night when two persons were killed and two injured—one critically—in a two-car accident 1.4 miles east of Wolbach on State Highway 22.

Killed were John and Kathryn Rock, both 50, of St. Libory.

The state safety patrol said they were passengers in a car driven by Danny Rock, 16, of Grand Island, which was in collision with a vehicle driven by James C. Ryan, 20, of Palmer.

The Rock youth was hurt, according to press dispatches, as was Gerald M. Rock, also of Grand Island, who was reported in critical condition in a St. Paul hospital. Ryan was uninjured.

The collision occurred as the Rock car was attempting a left turn into a county road, the patrol said.

On May 2, 1959, the Nebraska highway fatality figure stood at 87.

No precipitation was reported in the state over the weekend, but gusting winds took the edge off otherwise perfect weather Sunday.

Winds are expected to change to southerly and southwesterly by Monday.

CUBAN RALLY BUILDS TO ANTI-U.S. CLIMAX

Castro Addresses May Day Crowd; Some Exit Early

Havana (AP)—Hoarse and disheveled, Prime Minister Fidel Castro closed a 3½-hour May Day oration before hundreds of thousands of Cubans in Civic Plaza Sunday night with a new slogan: "Our country or death."

Charging that invasion plots against Cuba were being hatched on many fronts, Castro declared "Any attack against our country will have to confront a war to the death with the Cuban people."

His biting comments came after the huge rally turned into a roaring anti-U.S. demonstration in which chants of "Cuba yes, Yankees no" swept the crowd estimated by newsmen at 250,000 to 500,000. The crowd failed to work up much enthusiasm until the surge of anti-U.S. cries.

Early Exits

Many started to leave during the first hour of Castro's speech, which consisted chiefly of his familiar charges of plots and economic pressures against his revolution.

The fact that the crowd started dwindling was seen as significant by reporters.

The organizers of the rally, the Confederation of Cuban Workers, had spent maximum efforts to get a crowd of 1½ million. It appeared, however, that despite orders and appeals thousands of Cubans had stayed away, possibly out of disappointment with the revolutionary regime.

Elsewhere Sunday: Russians marched soldiers, tanks and rockets through Moscow's Red Square.

Tokyo demonstrators hanged President Eisenhower and Prime Minister Nobusuke Kishi in effigy.

Carnival reigned in Peiping, Red China's capital.

Massive March

Jack-booted troops and armored units of Communist East Germany's 110,000-man army marched through East Berlin.

Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin drew cheers from 700,000 West Berliners at a rally in front of the old Reichstag building with defiance of Soviet threats to the city and a call on the Western allies to remain until Germany is reunited.

"Here stand and live men who have shown that they deserve the right of self-determination," Brandt said.

Tokyo Rally

The Tokyo hanging of Eisenhower and Kishi in effigy was staged by one union at a rally whose dominant theme was opposition to parliamentary ratification of the revised U.S.-Japan security treaty.

Eisenhower, who is to visit Japan in June, was represented by a grotesque, leering puppet with big, pointed ears, monstrous yellow hands and bare feet. Kishi was depicted in an equally ugly way. Unionists locked arms and sang in front of the gallows.

Massive Crowd

Police said about 210,000 persons attended the rally, at the huge Meiji Shrine's outer garden. Main slogans called for disarmament, restoration of Peiping-Tokyo ties, a 5-day work week and higher wages.

Radio Peiping said the Peiping celebration was the biggest and most lively in the city's annals. It reported about 3 million Chinese took part, with firecrackers popping and music filling the air. Portraits of Marx, Engels, Lenin and Stalin were up, along with those of Communist Party Chairman Mao Tse-tung.

Couch Fire Takes Life Of Omahan

Omaha (AP)—James Roberts, 60-year-old bachelor, is Omaha's 18th fire victim of the year.

Roberts was dead on arrival at a hospital late Saturday night after apparently suffocating in his small smoke-filled home.

Firemen said a blaze in the davenport apparently was caused by a cigarette or cigar. The fire was confined to the most part to the sofa.

Leroy Gillispie, 37, whose home is located in front of the Roberts' place, said someone yelled "fire" and he dashed out and grabbed a garden hose while his wife called the fire department.

Gillispie was joined by a neighbor in breaking down the door of the Roberts' house.

"The only thing burning was the couch, but it was smoking something terrible. We crawled in and found Roberts lying in the middle of the floor. He was unconscious," Gillispie said.

AS DEATH DRAWS NEAR

'Last Night' Again Arrives For Caryl

San Quentin, Calif. (AP)—Calm and composed, Caryl Chessman went to a small prison waiting cell Sunday, starting a suspenseful all-night vigil next to San Quentin's gas chamber. The hour set for his ninth date with death is 10 a.m. Pacific daylight time Monday.

Only two hours before that, 7 California Supreme Court justices will convene to give their decision on the convicted sex kidnaper's latest petition for a stay. The court has voted 4-3 three times against clemency.

In Sacramento, Gov. Edmund G. Brown told a group including Steve Allen, Marlon Brando and Shirley MacLaine, film and television stars, that to grant their request to stay Chessman's death while petitions circulate to put abolition of the death penalty on the November ballot would be an abuse of his power and violation of his conscience. "The matter is in the hands of the state supreme court," he insisted.

Lawyer Pleads

Brown also rejected a telephoned appeal, lasting an hour, from Chessman's chief attorney, George T. Davis, in San Francisco.

He said he told Davis that if the supreme court turns Chessman down Monday he will not grant another stay. "If the court refuses him tomorrow, that will end it," Brown said.

Chessman's new petition, asserting innocence, asked delay in the execution until attorney general's investigators could find 3 men Chessman declared could prove he was not the 1948 red light bandit of Los Angeles lovers' lanes.

The attorney general's office said agents were looking around the clock for the 3 men.

At 3:30 p.m., 3 officers escorted Chessman from death row, on the sixth floor, down to the waiting room, 30 feet from the chamber itself.

When he left his cell, he shook hands with 17 of the condemned inmates and told them, "I'll see you in the morning." An officer said that was a standard remark for men taking the 6-floor trip.

Safflower Plant Fire Cost Huge

Loss At Sidney Said Half Million

Sidney, Neb. (UPI)—Fire which swept the safflower processing plant of the Pacific Vegetable Oil Corp.—General Mills, Inc., here Saturday night caused an estimated half-million dollars damage.

Ned Robinson, plant manager, said the plant had been shut down for the weekend Saturday night. He said investigators had not yet determined the cause of the fire.

The Sidney Volunteer Fire Department, which received the call about 10 p.m., kept the flames from spreading to approximately one-million pounds of oil and 250 tons of bulk safflower seed stored in several tanks and a large warehouse building.

The flames destroyed the main processing plant of the safflower mill operation.

While police and troops struggled to clear a path, de Gaulle smiled and waved.

Jensen Resigns From Tax Group

STATE SENATOR 'UNABLE' TO SUPPORT AMENDMENT

By Betty Person

Sen. Hans Jensen of Aurora Sunday announced his resignation from the newly-formed "Nebraskans For Constitutional Amendments," non-profit corporation formed to promote a sales-income tax petition drive.

"After further study, I find this proposed constitutional amendment for a sales-income tax is one which I cannot support," said Jensen.

The Aurora senator was one of 5 persons listed as incorporators of the organization when petition forms were filed with Secretary of State Frank Marsh last week.

Sen. Jensen

The others are former State Sens. Earl Lee of Fremont, Glenn Cramer of Albion and John P. McKnight of Auburn, and Robert B. Kramer of Scottsbluff, candidate for the 1961 Legislature.

Jensen sent his resignation to Lincoln public relations counselor John B. Quinn who filed the petitions.

The initiative petition proposal to replace the state property tax calls for enactment of a 2% general sales and use tax, a graduated income tax with a ceiling of 4% on net income, a $2,000 exemption for each individual on household goods and personal effects, and abolition of property taxes on intangibles.

10% Needed

Backers of the proposal must obtain 42,107 valid signatures, representing 10% of the total vote for governor at the last general election, in order to place the issue on the November ballot. Of that total, 5% of the vote for governor must be distributed in each of 38 counties.

"I don't think we should legislate by constitutional amendment — it is contrary to my ideas on legislation," said Jensen, adding that this proposal "would tie the hands of the Legislature."

Quinn said Jensen's idea of a broadened tax base would seek more equitable distribution of the tax load which supports all government functions, particularly schools — and that responsibility rests upon property owners and non-property owners alike," Jensen said.

Quinn Makes Statement

Lincoln public relations man John B. Quinn Sunday night aimed a barbed statement at Sen. Hans Jensen, who announced his resignation from a group including Quinn which is backing a constitutional amendment for a sales and income tax proposal.

Jensen, said Quinn, "is to be commended for his forthright action in resigning when he cannot make up his mind or at least be decisive in his thinking."

"Since the senator is sincere in his belief that the legislature can reduce property taxes without a constitutional amendment to establish a sales and income tax, his decision is accepted on the belief that he will use his influence in the legislature to do what the legislature has failed to do for more than 20 years . . .

"Many will conclude that Sen. Jensen quit because of politics and attitudes of leaders in his political party. I will deny this charge because I know him to be a man of his word — after he has thought the matter through for 4 or 5 days — and partisan politics have no place in his official or personal activities."

Verwoerd Isn't Shifting Policy On Segregation

Johannesburg, South Africa (AP)—The hopes of liberal and other groups that South Africa will relax its strict segregation policy has been dashed by Prime Minister Hendrik F. Verwoerd from his sick bed.

This was disclosed by M. D. de Wet Nel, minister of Bantu (Negro) affairs and development, at a Nationalist Party meeting after he visited the wounded Verwoerd, who is recuperating from a recent assassination attempt by a white foe of his racial policy.

"Dr. Verwoerd believes more than ever now that the policy being followed in South Africa is the correct one," said Nel, who is the chief executor of the government's policy toward the Negro majority.

Keep that mower away from roadsides until July 4th, will be the request of Game Commission personnel who have studied the nesting habits of pheasants and find that as high as 50% of our nestings are along roadsides.

A nesting study will again be conducted with the University of Nebraska co-operating with the Game Commission in 13 Nebraska counties, according to Prof. Howard Wieggers of the University Poultry Dept.

"Anything we can do for roadside protection early in the season will materially increase our pheasant production," says Ray Linder of Fairmont, assistant project leader.

Corn for paper towels — chemists of the Agriculture Research Service now report that they have developed a practical procedure for adding dialdehyde starch, which can be made from corn, wheat or grain sorghum to paper pulp to improve wet strength in paper.

Industrial adoption of the new finding on the use of starch in papers would allow this material to compete in a market with a potential annual capacity of 48 million pounds. USDA officials say from 750,000 to one and one-half million bushels of corn would be needed.

Top Wheat Varieties Disclosed

Leading varieties of wheat being grown for the 1960 Nebraska wheat crop are Pawnee, Cheyenne, Nebred and Bison, according to a survey by the Nebraska Crop Improvement Association.

"These varieties accounted for 84.8 per cent of the total acreage planted in the fall of 1959. The estimate is based on varieties planted, as reported by farmers cooperating in the survey," states Duane Foote, executive secretary of the Association.

"Pawnee still holds first place with 30.6% of the total, compared with 31% in 1959. Cheyenne continues to be the leading variety in western Nebraska, being planted on 25.1% of the total acreage compared with 29% in 1959."

"Nebred appears to be losing ground to the relatively new variety Bison," Foote explained. "Nebred is being grown on 14.7% of the acreage in 1960 as compared to 25% a year ago."

Unidentified Boat Sinks In Atlantic

Boston (AP)—An unidentified boat capsized and sank in the Atlantic Ocean about 10 miles off Scituate Sunday, the Coast Guard said. There was no information about survivors.

The boat was sighted overturned late Sunday afternoon while Coast Guard air and surface craft were searching the area for a vessel reported in distress.

Coast Guard spokesman said the boat was between 50 and 60 feet long with a black bottom. No identifying marks could be made out on the hull.

Dense fog and heavy rain hampered the search for survivors and darkness forced aircraft to suspend for the night.

No boats were reported missing.

W. C. Handy, Father Of The Blues, Honored In Memphis Ceremonies

Memphis, Tenn. (AP) — Friends and family Sunday unveiled an heroic bronze statue to W. C. Handy, and the Beale Street where he founded the blues was showered with song.

Handy's son Bill and his widow, Louise, both of New York, pulled the cord to undrape the monument to the father of the blues. The figure stands with cornet in hand, eyes on the distance. He faces South.

Handy's brother, Charlie, 71, stood before the statue and said the likeness was "damn good. Years ago he realized he had given to America a new form of music and someday he knew he would be remembered."

Keyed To Music

About 2,000 spectators surrounded the little park near the downtown end of Beale Street. They heard Negro singers Mahalia Jackson, Juanita Hall, Damita Jo and others honor Handy with songs. His friends, old cronies and politicians eulogized him. The "St. Louis Blues" and "Beale Street Blues" were played.

The event began with a parade led by a car carrying 5 of Handy's original band members. Rudolph Williams, a young Negro high school student, walked behind, dressed as Handy.

Behind him were 4 high school bands aflame with color. Playing the St. Louis Blues they skipped off lightly in half steps, arms and hips waving, their heads high and balancing straw "boater" hats of the early 1900's.

51 Year Span

At a downtown corner they stopped. Williams blared out "Mr. Crump," the song that was to become the "Beale Street Blues," the first such blues Handy wrote. On the same corner in 1909, Handy played the same piece as a campaign song for the late political boss, E. H. Crump.

On once boisterous Beale, George Lee opened ceremonies. He was a longtime friend of Handy and his biographer, too. He is one of the city's leading Negro citizens.

He honored Handy as the hot lipped man with golden trumpet who "discovered American music, expressing the mood and melody of a whole era of American life."

Diagonally across the street is where Handy's old hangout, Peevees', used to be. It's now a cosmetic shop. The once wild Beale Street were Handy got his inspiration has been quiet for 20 years.

New Lincoln Picture

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

Those who liked the mall on O Street during the recent Centennial celebration, and that seems to include just about everyone who saw it, will be happy to know that the idea is still a possibility. Not much has been heard recently in regard to the renovation of downtown Lincoln—a subject which was a hot one some months ago.

But this does not mean that apathy or indifference has set in. In fact, just the opposite is true. With the enthusiasm which was generated by the mall, Lincoln could have made some serious mistakes. O Street could have been plowed up and a lot of money poured into permanent improvements of the downtown shopping area only to have the entire program backfire. Vehicular and pedestrian circulation could have been completely disrupted, parking could have become an acute problem, fire protection could have been reduced to a dangerously low level and convenience to the public could have been impaired.

But none of this is going to happen. What happened was an awakening in the downtown area to the real and serious need for a co-ordinated program of improvement. The need was so clearly demonstrated with the mall and with trends throughout the nation that downtown business interests decided that a thorough and intelligent job had to be done.

Such a job as this called for more study than haste and that has been what we have been getting. The Downtown Development Corp. has quietly been studying its problems and possible solutions. This has taken time but it is understandable time in view of the economic stakes involved.

But this organization of local businessmen have now decided upon a plan of action. A professional planning firm will be employed as well as a local landscape architect as liaison officer. This team will work closely with city officials and the city's own planning firm of Harland Bartholomew & Associates of St. Louis, Mo. A mall will definitely be among the plans considered by this team for Lincoln's downtown area.

The corporation's planning firm will be Barton-Ashman Associates of Evanston, Ill. One of the members of this firm, George Barton, has been a long-time traffic engineering consultant to Lincoln and has a valuable familiarity with Lincoln and its problems. Speaking to the Lincoln corporation, Ted Ashman set the tone of present efforts when he said that downtown areas "in any way or shape are not on the way down. Only through neglect will this happen."

Such efforts as are being made by the Lincoln businessmen have been spurred on by the development of neighborhood shopping centers. But Ashman noted that the only advantage such centers currently have over downtown areas is their creation of a favorable outside atmosphere.

The neighborhood centers generally start from nothing, so to speak, and can, therefore, develop the kind of facilities their owners desire. They have no established trends or deficiencies to overcome. Nor are they faced with the variety of demands which are faced by downtown merchants. Their purpose and objectives are generally much more limited.

It is, thus, with comparative ease that they can provide the aesthetic attractiveness and convenience which have been a trademark of their success. But the same trademark can be acquired by any downtown group convinced enough of its need and willing enough to do something about it. With its varied and dense service and its already-established physical structure, it must make a special effort to achieve the trademark which comes naturally in the development of new neighborhood shopping centers. But it can be done and shows great promise of being done in Lincoln at this time.

What is done in Lincoln will not be a careless or ill-conceived program. It will involve a number of traffic, parking and movement studies as well as land use surveys. It will be a plan of action for the future which will fit hand in glove with the entire comprehensive city plan being developed by Bartholomew. It will be a courageous and constructive improvement of benefit to the whole community. This is one time when action seems to have outdistanced fanfare and that is a welcome reversal.

Achievable Beauty

Hoffa-izing Agriculture

James Hoffa has thrown a chill into some by announcing that he is going to spread the benevolences of his Teamster rule to the farms of the nation.

Perhaps this scheme suggested itself to him after a group of Eastern chicken farmers asked him to take over the problem of getting their business back on a paying basis. At any rate he proposes to start with the cannery workers and then move down the line, selling his union cards to the operators of agricultural machinery, finally to the farmer himself.

We shall see. But it is a good guess that Mr. Hoffa will find the going hard. There are far more farm operators than farm workers and it will be a little obscure to the farm owner or tenant, who is actually management, who he is going to hold his union card against, if not himself.

But the proposal does awaken the country to some possibilities. One of them is that a federal farm program that compounds problems rather than remedies them encourages all sorts of bizarre and irresponsible panaceas.

Another is that Hoffa's interest presages a very real consequence if the family type farm is finally run out of business, and the land falls into the hands of huge syndicates or industrial operators. Hoffa-izing the farm worker in that event would be easy. But that unhappy juncture is still some distance off. And the American public will have only itself to blame if it ever does arrive.

Violence With Hope

The now apparently subdued violence in South Korea and the later outbursts in Turkey are evidence of an unrest in the world which is not entirely to our disadvantage. No one can condone the loss of life that has been suffered or, in general, the principle of violent overthrow of a ruling government.

But the Korean and Turkish episodes have not been a display against democracy or an endorsement of communism. The ruling government in Korea, and in some respects in Turkey, is patterned after democracy and has our own concepts of democracy as an ultimate objective but it has been side-tracked in a number of areas.

In political freedom and many of the rights which we enjoy as citizens of a democracy, the governments of Korea and Turkey have much to be desired. Due, perhaps, to the pressure of tremendous obstacles, the ruling powers within these governments have degenerated into virtual dictators. The people have been given a taste of democracy and then no more and democracy is not a static form.

By its very nature, it must be dynamic and constantly in the process of change. It rests squarely on the theory that freedom creates its own fuel and burns brighter with every passing day. It is a sort of political perpetual motion which calls only for loyalty and enlightened leadership. But a little bit of freedom, like knowledge, is a dangerous thing.

In Korea and Turkey we see evidence of the fact that a declaration of intent toward democracy is not enough. There must be, also, provision made for the machinery of democracy—free elections, courts of justice and individual rights and freedoms. What we have witnessed in these two friendly nations is not animosity, but rather, an expression of repressed affinity.

Delay That Was Costly

Various Middle West state Republican organizations, Iowa included, have broken with the Benson-Eisenhower administration on the question of how to handle farm production.

The administration for almost eight years has held firmly to the doctrine that depressed supports and the removal of acreage limitations would bring food supply in line with demand, and, therefore, end the problem of surpluses. This was based on the assumption that if the price were poor enough the farmer would give up trying and would turn to some other sort of production.

The Iowa Republican organization stated the disagreement succinctly recently when it officially proposed concrete and effective legislation limiting production. It also criticized the Democratic Congress for failing to enact such legislation long since. The criticism, of course doesn't stand up in the light of the record. Actual veto by President Eisenhower twice blighted Congress's efforts; threats of it stifled other proposed legislation, and the knowledge that any radical departure from low price, unlimited production would inevitably pass to the control of Secretary Benson, who would be unsympathetic, actually hamstringed the Congress.

But the repudiation of the Benson thesis by substantial elements of his own party is an admission of failure.

And the party is to be reminded that it has waited eight years too long. The financial losses of a failing program are already present and cannot be lightly voted out of existence. Moreover, as the surpluses have grown it has been necessary to make greater accommodation in terms of storage facilities, and this great outlay of capital cannot be nullified without breeding calamity in the grain trade.

India Shows Firmness

India's neutralism has at one time or another seemed to both the Red and Western worlds as a pallid device in which neither side could count on an ally, but which one side or the other might gain an advantage by being aggressive. Time is proving that this is not true.

Red China has been throwing its weight around more than a year now in a border dispute with India. But if there was any appeasement in India's attitude it did not show when Prime Minister Nehru and Chou En Lai held their recent meeting. The most Chou En Lai could go home with was an arrangement that lesser ministers of both nations could keep on discussing the subject later this summer. In the several tests India has had it is demonstrating that a nation can be peaceable and still firm.

Two Commissioners Under Investigation

WASHINGTON—Here is the backstage story of two important commissioners appointed by Eisenhower who are under congressional scrutiny this week.

Most people consider ambassadors the most important appointments made by a president. Ambassadors are glamorous, but they don't hold a candle to the power of certain commissioners who can decide what American housewives pay for gas and electricity, or rule on what the nation listens to and sees on radio and television.

Today the House of Representatives takes a look at one of these key commissioners, while the Senate is already considering the other. Here is their record:

1. William Connolly of the Federal Power Commission took a firm stand to protect the gas rates of northern and eastern consumers. He ruled against Cities Service, Continental Oil, Atlantic, and Tidewater in the biggest natural gas rate test in history. Other commissioners overruled him but eventually his opinion was upheld by the Supreme Court.

Connolly's stand for the consumers cost the big oil and gas companies five cents per thousand cubic feet which meant millions of dollars in profits.

2. Commissioner Robert

E. Lee of the Federal Communications Commission rose to favor in the Eisenhower administration as a result of his close friendship with the late Senator McCarthy.

Most of the senators now called upon to pass on Lee's record don't know it, but Lee, no relation to the Civil War hero, is the man who came to McCarthy's rescue after Joe had made the amazing charge that there were "205 card-carrying Communists" in the State Department, and then found he couldn't prove it.

Lee was then minority clerk of the house appropriations committee and managed to get and give McCarthy a list of 81 security risk cases locked up in the files of his committee.

Most of the list of 81 which Lee supplied to McCarthy had already been fired by Secretary of State Acheson, and in the end, Scott McLeod, McCarthy's friend who became State Department security officer, testified under oath that McCarthy was never able to find one Communist in the State Department.

Later Lee plunged into the Maryland 1950 campaign to defeat Sen. Millard Tydings, who had challenged Joe's charges against the State Department.

A New Idea In Political Debate

WASHINGTON — Hearings are to be held shortly on a modest proposal that might contribute in this presidential year to two highly desirable ends. One is to foster serious debate between the presidential candidates on the grave issues of the day and the other is to reduce the high cost of politics.

As initiated by Sen. A. S. Mike Monroney, taking up an idea advanced by Adlai Stevenson, this is a modest proposal indeed. Monroney's original idea was for an hour and a half a week to be carried on all networks. The two candidates would each have half an hour for an initial presentation on a given issue and then an additional 15 minutes for rebuttal. The current bill, which is sponsored by a dozen senators, including one Republican, calls for two hours of time each week. But in the hearings before Sen. John O. Pastore's subcommittee of the Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee, it is likely to be modified.

In the 1956 campaign the Republicans spent $4,036,935 on radio and TV and the Democrats $2,971,143. The total of $7,008,078 came largely from favor-seekers who never fail to try to get a return on their investment after the election is over. This is one reason the American political system is so costly. A vivid recollection of this reporter's campaign travels some years ago was a talk with the governor of one of the poorest states in the union. He was about to run for reelection in the primary for a two-year term. The office at the time paid a salary of $7,500 a year.

How much would his campaign cost? About a half-million dollars, he allowed. And who would pay the bill? The highway contractors and the liquor people. His opponent would be financed by the big utility company that dominated the state and he would spend rather more than a half-million, the governor guessed.

The clean elections bill adopted by the Senate early in the session through the efforts of Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. of Missouri is still held up in the House. There is strong opposition from the southerners because it covers primaries as well as other elections and it will almost certainly be stopped. With prime TV time costing from $70,000 to $90,000 a half hour the proposal for a national debate on the networks would help to cut down the high cost of politics.

A number of measures have been put in to give free time to representatives and senators in campaign years. Obviously the airways would be hopelessly cluttered if this were carried very far. But surely, as Monroney argues, the candidates of the two major parties could debate on free time once a week without endangering the free enterprise system as practiced by private radio and television. The airways are held, after all, only by a franchise granted by the government of the United States.

Frank Stanton of CBS has declared his opposition to the proposal. He argues that the networks would provide ample time for debate if the law requiring equal time for all candidates was changed to cover only Republican and Democratic candidates.

Wonders Of The Universe

Astronauts on trips to Venus and Mars may run into the transient hazards of other radiation belts circling these planets. At one time it was thought that once the astronauts passed safely through the radiation belt of the earth, they were in the clear.

Dr. S. Fred Singer of the University of Maryland, the physicist who predicted the existence of the earth-circling radiation belts detected by our Pioneer rockets and provided the explanation for them, now infers that both Venus and Mars, the first two planets to be visited after the conquest of the moon, are surrounded by radiation belts.

In 1955, he reasoned that even though single charged particles could not be trapped by the magnetic field of the earth, if enough of them came through, they would warp or modify the earth's magnetic field and thus become trapped. His calculations indicated the particles would be held a long time during which they would move in corkscrew paths, oscillating across the earth's equator at high altitudes. In time these particles would be removed by scattering and colliding with atmospheric particles.

In 1958, he showed that the inner belt was due to cosmic ray bombardment on atmospheric particles giving rise to neutrons. The short-lived neutrons decay into protons and electrons with the maximum between 4,000 and 8,000 miles from the earth's center. Later, Pioneer III disclosed this belt was a maximum at about 6,000 miles from the earth's center. The outer belt, Dr. Singer explained, was comprised of charged particles from the sun—electrons—and these were a maximum of about 14,000 miles from the earth's center.

Now Dr. Singer projects his thinking into the future when astronauts will travel to the planets. The verification of his early work indicates that any planet with a magnetic field and an atmosphere must possess radiation belts. This is true unless the atmosphere of the planet is wholly hydrogen. In the case of a hydrogen atmosphere the cosmic ray impacts would give rise to so few neutrons that the inner belt, if it existed at all, would be a very weak one. Because the electron showers thin out as we move away from the sun, the outer radiation belts of distant planets would also be weak.

At the moment we are interested in two planets—Venus and Mars.

Dr. Singer assumes that the magnetic field of a planet is dependent on its volume. Thus the magnetic field of Venus is about the same as the earth while the magnetic field of Mars is about two-thirds that of the earth.

It is reasonable to assume that the cosmic ray density does not vary too much in the solar system. Thus, the inner belt of the two other planets closely approximates that of the earth. In other words, the inner belt of both Venus and Mars will be just as undesirable a place to be as the inner radiation belt of the earth.

As the outer belt is created by an influx of solar particles, the planet closer to the sun will receive a good bit more than those far from the sun. In fact, Venus intercepts twice as many particles as earth while Mars intercepts less than half. For this reason, the maximum of the outer belt should be some 16 per cent farther from the Martian surface than the outer belt of the earth, while the outer belt of Venus should be slightly more than 10 per cent closer to the surface than the outer belt of the earth.

Dr. Singer brings out a fascinating point about Mars. Because this planet has two small satellites which circle close to the surface of the planet, he believes that the inner one, Phobos, — about 3,400 miles from the surface—can act as a broom to sweep out a doughnut-shaped path around Mars. Not only is the radiation hazard reduced above the surface of Mars, but the satellite itself can act as an ideal observation platform from which to view the planet.

In the near future probes will be launched toward both these planets and a chance will be had to substantiate this theory. If Dr. Singer's predictions are correct they can be applied to other fields. If the theory is wrong, then we can determine what modifications are necessary to make it right.

Give It Time

Lincoln, Neb.
Bully for you and the Star for the fine editorial on April 28 on the current taxation proposal outburst. This self-appointed committee seems to want Nebraska to declare bankruptcy on its tax laws and begin all over again on some new and unbacked proposals which they put forward.

Nebraska's tax setup is by no means a failure. It is more equitable and uniform than it has ever been before. Our tax rolls are bigger and better and more just than at any time in Nebraska history.

Two years ago Gov. Brooks, Terry Carpenter, and a lot of other forthright citizens fought long and hard to make tax assessments bigger and more equitable. Two tax commissioners, numerous county boards, and even a timid legislature got into the act and made notable progress to set our tax system in order. Let us be fair with them. They did a notable job. Brooks in particular preached incessantly that our tax system had never had a fair trial. He said if we got the property of the state on the tax rolls, it would run the state comfortably without radical change. Wasn't Brooks elected after he preached this gospel for several months? Didn't he and Conrad make this their central issue and objective during the campaign and the entire legislative session?

If this election was not a mandate for our present tax system, what was all the shouting about? Ninety per cent of the uproar in that campaign was over taxes. The results of this election have been put into the laws and practices of the state. They are not perfect, but they are a notable advance on what we had before.

These taxation boys that have busted out with such a flock of unco-ordinated proposals are trying to destroy a lot of good things and are proposing experiments in their place. Let us give our new system time to shake down and do its work.

Fair Play Plea

Lincoln, Neb.
I am a working mother. I am a nurse, cook, laundress, purchasing agent, chauffeur, scullery maid, seamstress, repairman, gardener, recreational assistant, father confessor, teacher, and mother of seven children whom I love dearly. However, I am a home-owner in a neighborhood where the other children are perfect, the women never have a cluttered room, and the men were never mischievous boys. These children of mine are normal, healthy, exuberant, and sometimes naughty.

We go to church where we are taught to Love Thy Neighbor. We believe that both children and adults should look to the police, not in fear, but for understanding help. Under the circumstances, this is difficult. I cannot be with each child every moment, nor can I get done all that I should or would like to do every 24 hours.

With this letter, I wish to invite anyone interested to inspect my home and grounds at any time. I will gladly show proof that I have not been married four times (only twice), or introduce any callers about whom anyone is curious. I will give the victims of the well-known egg incident the names of the boys other than mine (careful, they might be yours) involved, so that they too may be reported to the police. I will even give a telephone number of the Police Department to anyone who can't find it.

Now, I am an easy-going person, if not pushed too far. I don't report trespassers, child or adult, who use my yard as a thoroughfare to school, bus or neighbor. I haven't filed any suits for slander. I don't even repeat what I know about home movies. So, come on, let's play fair, shall we?

Avoiding Taxes

Lincoln, Neb.
We agree with the taxpayer who wrote in recently, saying that something should be done about those who buy their car licenses out of this county, and in this way avoid paying the wheel tax and other vehicle taxes here in this county.

I personally know of six or eight people who have lived here in Lincoln for years, making a living here, yet have out-of-county licenses. Two of them live in our block, which means eight dollars. This is very unfair to the rest of the people who have to pay the wheel tax. Something should be done about it.

Rockefeller Discounts Own Chances, But Won't Board Nixon Bandwagon

By Associated Press
Washington (AP) — Gov. Nelson Rockefeller said Sunday the possibility a draft would be started for him at the Republican national convention is so remote it is not worth speculating about.

And he said it "would be fantastic" to suppose that the Democrats might seek him as their candidate to oppose Vice President Nixon.

Although Rockefeller shrugged off any possibility of running on either ticket, he refused to say whom he favors for the presidency.

He wouldn't put in a plug for Nixon when asked who he would like to see become the next president.

Speaking Visits

Rockefeller was in Chicago for a convocation address at the University of Chicago's new law center.

Nixon also was in Chicago for a speech but the two men had no plans to meet.

Responding to a Democratic challenge, Nixon said he has no intention of divorcing himself from the record of the Eisenhower administration.

Saying the Democratic policy hasn't changed since Harry S. Truman was president, Nixon said "The Truman record is one with which any Democratic candidate will be saddled. And I'd be happy to run on an Eisenhower versus Truman record."

Nixon talked about a new farm program to replace one which he said "everyone agrees is wrong."

"We must break away from what we have. We need a new approach agreement to the farmer and to the nation as a whole."

He was asked, too, about the possibility he might not be selected by the GOP national convention as its standard bearer.

"The odds are not great," he replied, "but it's possible."

Morse Amenable

Sen. Wayne Morse (D-Ore) insisted again he is a serious candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination but added he would settle for the vice presidential spot.

Sen. Thruston B. Morton (R-Ky) the Republican national chairman, said there may be a "pretty hot" contest for the GOP vice presidential nomination.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass) meanwhile drew the biggest crowd of his West Virginia presidential campaign but couldn't deliver a full-length speech because of a throat infection which has bothered him for a couple of days.

Kennedy appeared before a crowd estimated by a sheriff at 4,000 people.

Ted Kennedy, the senator's brother, pinching him for him, told the crowd that Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) hasn't "the slightest chance of being elected president of the United States."

The president of the state

Dale Hanna Auctioneers New Leader

Norfolk (AP) — Dale Hanna of York was elected president of the Nebraska Auctioneers Assn. Sunday.

DEAR ABBY

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am tired of hearing mothers complain about how "commercialized" Mother's Day has become. Some mothers are so ungracious as to tell their children, "Don't give me any presents — I don't need anything!"

If mothers used their heads, they would realize that their children WANT to honor them with a special gift on this day. Please say something to those thoughtless mothers who discourage their children from buying them a gift on Mother's Day.

LIKES PRESENTS
DEAR LIKES: When a mother says she doesn't "NEED" any presents, she does not mean to be "ungracious." She doesn't want her child to deprive himself of anything to buy her a gift.

An original poem or letter costs nothing and is cherished most. When I was a child, I heard those words from my own dear mother. I wrote her little poems and "essays" on Mother's Day telling her how much I appreciated her. Only after she passed away did I realize how much they had meant to her. She had kept them all.

Opening lead — king of spades.

This phenomenal hand from a rubber bridge game is reported by the French writer J. le Dentu. With everybody vulnerable and on score, South started activities with a whimsical no-trump bid.

The bidding then proceeded at a merry pace until it died at five hearts doubled. Apparently, West was taken in by the pyrotechnics, as evidenced by his double of five hearts. East-West could have made six spades.

West led the spade king and continued with the queen. Declarer saw he was faced with a two-trick defeat, since he had a spade, a diamond, and two clubs to lose. But he also saw that there was no harm in trying to steal the hand, or at least save a trick.

So he discarded his diamond on the queen of spades. West, failing to appreciate the significance of the play, innocently led another spade, and the fat was in the fire.

Declarer ruffed with the nine of hearts and led the seven of trumps to the eight. Then he played the king of diamonds, East covering with the ace.

South ruffed high and crossed to dummy by playing the four of hearts to the five. He then discarded a club loser on the queen of diamonds and trumped a diamond high again.

West's jack of diamonds fell on the trick, establishing dummy's 10-6. So South led the heart deuce to the three, discarded his club loser on the diamond ten, and made five hearts doubled.

We hold no brief for West's failure to shift to a club at trick three. He should have known the score and discontinued playing spades. Obviously, declared had to have a singleton diamond, because it would have made no sense for South to discard a diamond if he held two, three, or more diamonds.

But a full measure of praise is bestowed on South, who gave West a chance to go wrong, and succeeded in the effort.

Afternoon Wedding

MRS. DEAN BECK

For her marriage to Dean Beck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lyman Beck, which took place on Sunday afternoon, May 1, at the Bethany Christian Church, Miss Karen Nelson, daughter of Mrs. Arnold Nelson, chose a gown of re-embroidered lace and silk organza. The lace fashioned the long-sleeved bodice, designed with a portrait neckline patterned with seed pearls and iridescents, and was repeated in applique on the bouffant organza-overskirt. A half-shell of lace held to the head her double-tiered veil, and she carried lavender orchids on a white Bible.

The 3 o'clock service was solemnized by the Rev. Carl Burchardt before a background of white gladioli and chrysanthemums, and the wedding music was played by Mrs. Charles Hoffman. Miss Gail Galloway was the vocalist.

The bride's attendants were Mrs. Ray Girmus, the matron of honor, and bridesmaids Miss Sandra Sinnett, Miss Janet Webster and Miss Janice Jeffrey. Beth Jeary was the flower girl, and the ringbearers were Susan Starlin and Scott Johnson. The candles were lighted by Mack and Gregg Starlin.

Gene Samuelson served as best men, and the ushers included Bob Nelson of Omaha; Dave Elm, Fred Samuelson, Kenneth Cuddeford, all of Geneva; Lyle Hall, Dick Dewey and Tom Beck.

Following a reception in the church parlors, Mr. Beck and his bride left for a honeymoon trip to California. Upon their return they will reside at 6609 Colfax.

Mrs. Beck is a member of Nu Phi Mu, business girls' sorority.

This was written on Mother's Day, in tribute to his Mother, by a young prisoner who was awaiting execution in San Quentin prison:

"A crime was committed and there was an arrest, and a boy was thrown into a cell. The crime was great, the boy was young and the cell was dark. Life seemed at an end and hell became a living thing.

"Then one day as the boy sat weeping in his cell, he looked up to see his mother. She was smiling. She opened her arms and said, 'My boy, did you think I would not come to you?' And suddenly the boy forgot his terror and found comfort in the magic circle of his mother's arms.

"Through the dark that shrouded the hill of Calvary, a voice cried, 'Son, behold thy mother.' And Mary knelt at the foot of the cross. That was a cross of glory, but had it been one of shame, Mary would have been there.

"For every son who crucifies himself on pillars of hate, weakness and greed, there at the foot of the cross you will find his mother. Your mother and mine. God bless them, here and beyond. They have known so much pain."

ASK—

Dorothy Draper

While driving through the country recently we saw a most inspiring sight. A tall-spired New England church with its frosted-white pillars beautifully lit from beams emanating from some hidden source. We stopped to take in the beauty and serenity of this picture. And that started us talking of the magic of lighting.

Lighting can do so much for a room and the people in it. With all the marvelous systems of indirect lighting today, we really should get more drama into our rooms. Too often our lighting is too blatant. This dispels the enchantment of good company. Many times, on the other hand, a room is poorly or unevenly lit and we have the urge to brush away the fog-like dimness.

The next time you entertain look over your rooms and see if YOU are missing that magic that effective lighting invites!

Mrs. M.B. asks: "I am decorating my living room and would like your idea on what color to do the walls. The room has sun all day. The front has six windows on which is the enclosed pattern, wall to wall. Also a window facing east which has same. The stairs are painted white, leading upstairs on the west side. The floor covering is in dark green. Furniture is blond. I am getting three new chairs and a sofa. What colors would you use?"

Dear Mrs. M.B.: I can just see your room and I would like the walls painted the exact green of the background of your curtain fabric which you enclosed. The new sofa would be a nice emphasis in black (to punctuate the black design in your curtains.) Two chairs could be in turquoise blue to pick up the turquoise splash of color in your curtains. One chair in black. I think, although it sounds like a lot of color that the turquoise, black, green and white will make a nicely coordinated room. Use white flowers and white accessories.

Mrs. D.G. asks: "We have aqua formica with lavender paint and towels in our bathroom. We would like to have something different. What would you suggest?"

Dear Mrs. D.G.: I think you would get very tired of aqua formica and lavender paint and towels in your bathroom. Better dream up something else. You say you want something different, how about an aqua and black striped washable wallpaper and black towels?

AAWU Officers Are Installed

The Nebraska Division, American Association of University Women, voted to encourage qualified women to seek public office and to accept appointments to policy-making boards and commissions at its closing convention session Saturday at Fremont. The organization, however, does not endorse candidates for partisan offices.

Miss Lucille Ledwith of Lincoln was installed as new president of the state AAWU; Mrs. Charlie Dunn, Fremont, first vice president; and Mrs. Warren Eckloff, Minden, secretary. Continuing in office are Mrs. E. T. Swanson, North Platte, treasurer, and Miss Bernice Elliott, Omaha, second vice president.

Sunday Afternoon Hostesses

One of the Sunday afternoon events was the tea given by the group of young hostesses, all Southeast High School seniors, at the home of Brenda Harrison.

The hostess group, in addition to Miss Harrison, included Ann Bartholomew, Pat Brownfield, Diane Deitemeyer, Jan Goldstein, June Hobbs, Andy Isgrig, Donna Mae Olander, Pat Plamondon and Margie Vorhees.

The Lincoln Duplicate Bridge Club has planned something special and it is a dinner. But it is not on Wednesday evening and it is not at Hotel Lincoln. It is on Friday evening, May 6, and it is to be held at King's Buffet.

NAA Plans A "Special"

All members of the Nebraska Art Association doubtless know by this time that the Association has some special plans for them on Thursday evening at the Lincoln Country Club.

Those plans include dinner after which there will be three films, two short ones on art, and a movie, "The Lavender Hill Mob" which stars Alec Guinness.

Alumni Meet

Mrs. Jim R. Slocum was hostess to the officers of the College View High School alumni on Wednesday, April 27. During the evening plans were made for the group's seventh annual banquet which will be held at Cotner Terrace on Saturday, June 25.

CASE STUDY 10

Lincoln Contractor Heats Own Home Electrically

Investigated . . . Decides To Use Modern Electric Heat

How does a contractor heat his own home? Kenneth Schweitzer, 701 East Hillcrest Drive, Lincoln, installed electric heat.

"It's simple to install, and offers low cost, efficient heating," said the contractor, who moved into his new home in October.

Mrs. Schweitzer is pleased with the individual heat control in each room. "We can turn the heat down in the rooms not in use during the day — yet heat them in a short time when they are in use."

The Schweitzer home, a 1,600 square-foot ranch type, has both baseboard and radiant ceiling cable heating units. The house is fully insulated, 6" in ceilings, 4" in side walls and 2" in floors. Estimated heating cost: About $35 a month during the heating season.

"Our whole family is sold on electric heat," said Mrs. Schweitzer.

FOUR TYPES OF ELECTRIC HEATING NOW AVAILABLE

Radiant Electric Cable — Embedded into ceiling or walls, it's completely concealed. Like warming by sunshine. You feel comfortable at lower temperature. Healthful.

Baseboard Electric Heaters — Install along outside walls. Warm convected air rises gently while heat radiates out at floor level. Ends cold floor problem.

Radiant Electric Panels — Glass, metal or ceramic panel recessed into wall radiates sun-like heat without draft. Ideal for bathrooms. Easy to install and clean. Safe!

Built-in Wall Units — Use one or more in a room. Some types have fans to increase heating capacity. Available with built-in thermostats to control heat automatically.

For more information and your free copy of "Questions and Answers about Electric Heat", contact your local public power agency.

Stanton Delaplane's POSTCARD

New Orleans. City of pralines, Creole gumbo, New Orleans coffee, fluffy donuts in the French Market and synthetic sin on Bourbon street.

"That will be $5.50, honey," said the lady bartender in the Thunderbar. "WHAT! For one drink?"

"The first drink is always $5.50 honey." She was a comfortable grandmother type. Behind her on the barstool, the pride of Bourbon street, Miss Dollar Candy was stripping her exotic red gloves to the tune of a Dixieland band.

"What is the second round, ma'am? $10.50?"

"Why, no, honey. Y'all can have the second for $1.55."

"Dollar day?" "Is very expensive, no?" said Mr. Lemoine. Mr. Lemoine is a Frenchman on his first trip across the United States. I am showing him the native life. What is more native than Bourbon street?

We picked up a car in Chicago. I borrowed a "compact," a Dodge Dart, for delivery on the West Coast. The American small cars fascinate Jacques Lemoine. At home, he drives a racy Renault Caravelle. You could put it in the trunk of our compact. However, our power windows and power brake and steering mechanism fascinate him. He runs the windows up and down constantly.

We put the car on the Delta Queen, a paddle-wheel steamer on the Mississippi.

Yesterday's rainy morning, we took off at Natchez and drove down through the lush Louisiana bayou country. The redbirds were out like representatives of the Chamber of Commerce.

All along the road, people were selling huge Louisiana strawberries. The first of the season.

New Orleans is beginning the Spring Festival. (A replica of Andy Jackson landed in the old French Quarter this morning. He defied the British.)

This fascinating town has the best press agents and the poorest hotel system of all our American cities. Hotels here are constantly full. A week's advance request failed to get us into our favorite, the Monteleone.

However, we got a good corner room at the old St. Charles (now refurbished and renamed the Sheraton Charles).

New Orleans oysters in the French Quarter were as good as I remembered.

The fresh strawberry shortcake—"tarte des fraises Americaine," said Jacques—was excellent.

"And now to the native American night life," I said.

Bourbon Street is a must on all tourist lists. And when we arrived at the Thunderbar, the Gray Line was unloading giggling, apprehensive ladies.

"Don't be alarmed, ladies," said the master of ceremonies. "It's gay but it's all in fun."

A series of striptease ladies then walked out on the bar. They began to undress with more or less enthusiasm. The grandmotherly bar lady went around collecting $5.50 per glass. A sleepy policeman dozed in the corner and the band played "Waitin' for the Robert E. Lee."

Miss Dollar Candy wrapped a diaphanous veil around her. She inquired archly if anyone could see through it. "I hope not," she said. I could see through it but did not make a voluntary statement. I think Miss Dollar Candy could lose 15 pounds to advantage. That is my opinion.

Two of the previous ladies got dressed and came and sat with us. They said they surely hoped y'all are enjoyin' N'yawlines. They had something to drink. The grandmotherly bar lady collected $5.50 for each from M. Lemoine.

"Is very expensive, no?" said Mr. Lemoine.

"But toujours gai," I said. It reminded me a good deal of evenings in Place Pigalle in Paris. Where they popped the cheapest champagne at $25 a bottle. And the lady who sat with us apparently thought it was going out of style. She should hurry and get all she could.

America was revented on France this night. You may now make a separate peace. McNaught Syndicate, Inc.

'THESE FISH ARE TOO BIG, DAD'

Jon Beers, 2, broke into tears when his daddy—Dallas Morning News photographer Jack Beers—returned from a fishing trip and asked the tyke to pose with these black bass. Reason was that Jon had an order in for some finned specimen a little more his size. Weight on dad's whoppers were 5 3/4 pounds for the one on the left and 4 3/4 for the other.

McCook After 7th Juco Track Crown

... DOANE RELAYS TOPS NCC SCHEDULE

By Paul LeBar
McCook's assault on its 7th straight junior college crown hogs the track spotlight this week among Nebraska collegians.

Coach E. P. Baruth's Indians are expected to breeze at Norfolk Tuesday against the host school, Fairbury, Scottsbluff and Luther.

Dash ruler Ed Kester, weight king Larry Reiners, hurdler Marvin Tell and half-miler Norman Lewis head Baruth's list of talent.

Scottsbluff, with newcomers Max Carpenter in the mile and Cliff Calvert in the quarter-mile offering strong bids, is given the nod for second place.

Norfolk's hopes ride with defending two-mile champion Gerald Peschel, who'll try to better his 1959 winning performance of 10:49.7.

The Blackhawks may draw additional points from sprinter Lonny Brewer and weight man Gene Carstens.

Kester, who doubled in the sprints at 10.2 and 22.2 a year ago, faces former 5-JC champion Jerry Kesting of Luther in his bids.

Kesting hung up a loop standard of 9.9 before entering the Air Force in 1956. He's been under that mark since and had a record-tying excursion in his credit this spring.

Trail Leaders

Four-year schools, meanwhile, trail the pacesetters listed among the latest National Assn. of Intercollegiate Athletics leaders.

The Nebraska College Conference group plies its wares again in the 12th Doane Night Relays Friday and has two weeks after that to groom for the conference test.

Leading marks to date are well shy of the blue-ribbon pace set in the NCC meet last May.

Duals Slated

Dual meet action for the week includes Wayne at Omaha today and Peru at Tarkio (Mo.) and Concordia at Wesleyan Tuesday.

Wesleyan is expected to split its forces and enter both the Doane carnival and the Sioux City Relays Friday.

The Plainsmen and Chadron enter the Howard Wood Relays in Sioux Falls, S.D. Saturday.

Steve Shurina pitched a 3-hitter in the 7-inning opener. Back-to-back homers by Billy Dasher and Marv Schultz broke a scoreless tie in the 6th inning.

Ted Farley, Dasher and Marty Rosell homered for Topeka in the nightcap.

Sox Sweep Double Bill

... 6-3, 5-2 OVER TIGERS

Chicago (P)—Gerry Staley and southpaw Frank Baumann supplied brilliant relief pitching Sunday, giving the Chicago White Sox 6-3 and 5-2 victories over the Detroit Tigers and undisputed first place in the American League.

The Sox took a one-game lead over the New York Yankees, who lost to Baltimore, and Cleveland, which took a double-header from Kansas City.

A crowd of 29,586 saw the Sox extend their winning streak to 5 games. The loss left Detroit with 6 straight defeats.

Staley won the opener on a one-hit relief job after Bob Shaw had been shelled in the 6th inning.

Baumann, who came to Chicago from Boston in a trade for Ron Jackson last November, replaced Dick Donovan with two out in the first inning of the nightcap and the Tigers ahead 2-0. He blanked them the rest of the way on 3 hits.

Luis Aparicio pulled out of a hitting slump by knocking in one Sox run in the opener and 3 in the second game.

Al Kaline hit a solo homer for Detroit in the 4th inning of the first game and Al Smith pounded a two-run homer for the Sox in the 3rd—the second homers of the season for each.

GAMES THIS WEEK

Nebraska at Oklahoma State, Oklahoma at Missouri, Colorado at Kansas, Kansas State at Iowa State.

Muddy diamonds forcing cancellation of the Colorado series did Nebraska's base-batters no favors over the weekend.

Coach Tony Sharpe's slump-ridden Cornhuskers have only road series at Oklahoma and Oklahoma State and a home series with Kansas left on the Big 8 Conference slate.

"When you have only 3 sets at home, it makes it a little rough when you get rained out of one," Sharpe declared.

The loop race tightened up when Oklahoma won two of 3 from defending national champion Oklahoma State at Stillwater.

Sharpe, however, figures the reversals will only make the Cornhuskers tougher for the Scarlet's invasion Friday and Saturday.

He hopes shortstop Rex Swett—injured in the Iowa State series—will return to bolster the Cornhusker defense this week.

Orioles Dump Yankees, 9-5

... ESTRADA GOES DISTANCE

Baltimore (P)—Rookie Chuck Estrada struggled through a complete game in his first major league start Sunday and pitched the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-5 victory over the New York Yankees.

The Orioles, humiliated 16-0 Saturday for their worst defeat in modern history, fell behind at the outset but came back with 6 runs in the 4th inning after the first two batters went out.

Seven consecutive batters reached base during the rally off 3 Yankees pitchers. A two-run single by pinchhitter Bob Boyd and a 3-run double by Joe Ginsberg were the key blows.

Rookie John Gabler, the third of 6 New York pitchers was charged with the loss. He gave up Boyd's bases-loaded single and two walks in relief of Bobby Shantz and failed to retire a batter.

Art Ditmar replaced Gabler, and Ginsberg promptly rapped him for the base-clearing double.

Elston Is Salvation For Cubs

St. Louis (P)—Tony Taylor drove in 3 runs and Don Elston sparked in relief Sunday as the Chicago Cubs ended a 2-game losing streak with a 5-4 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals.

Glen Hobbie, credited with his second win, was leading 5-3 up to the 8th. When Stan Musial and Carl Sawatski started the 8th with singles, Al Schroll relieved and walked Daryl Spencer to fill the bases.

With a 2-0 count on dangerous Leon Wagner, Elston took over. He got Wagner on a pop-up, yielded a sacrifice fly to George Crowe and fanned Bob Nieman.

Lincoln Claims 5-3, 4-3 Wins

... LOOK SLAMS HOME RUN

Lincoln Star Special

Des Moines, Ia.—All-American Dean Look wunched his first home run of the season as Lincoln's Chiefs stunned Des Moines' winless Demons twice in the Three-I League Sunday.

Lincoln's 5-3 and 4-3 wins vaulted the Chiefs into a tie for 4th place in the circuit.

Des Moines' string of losses reached 7 and mired the club deeper in the league's basement.

Righthander Ron Teunis, Lincoln veteran, went the distance in the nightcap after Look—off the Michigan State campus—and little center-fielder Gene Duffy joined forces for the Chiefs in the opener.

Teunis survived solo home runs by Don Lightner and pinch hitter Steve Hershner to pick up his first win of the season.

He scored the winning run himself in the final frame after doubling and coming home on first baseman Gary Johnson's 3rd single of the game.

Three errors in the field marred the Des Moines bid. The Demons fought back for ties in the 3rd and 5th frames. Jerry Moeller, a Midwest League graduate from Davenport (Ia.), bailed out Chiefs' rookie righthander Ron Plath in the opener after Lincoln exploded for 5 runs in the second inning.

Moeller took over following a two-run Des Moines uprising in the 7th and held the Demons at bay to preserve the win.

Big blows in the Chiefs' insurrection were Look's 360-foot homer with teammate Pug Williamson aboard and Duffy's two-run double.

Irv Clark belted home all 3 Des Moines tallies with a double in the second and a single in the 7th.

Duffy also sparked defensively with a running catch of Richie Haines' drive to the wall in the 6th frame of the matinee contest.

Gant-Kossek High
Toledo, O. (P)—Bob Gant and Bernie Kossek of Lincoln led Sunday's doubles contestants in the American Bowling Congress tourney with a 1211 total, but failed to make the ABC top ten.

Lesson In Etiquette

A Russian soccer football player has been called on the carpet for his ungentlemanly actions in a recent game. Seems the player unloaded with his fists on an opponent and now faces possible loss of his title "merited master of sport."

The switch is that a group of fans turned him in—not the umpire who was unaware of the foul deed.

Kinda makes you wonder who's boss in the Soviet—the multitudes or the game officials.

Speaking Of Horses

Saturday's Kentucky Derby begins the 1960 chase after racing's elusive Triple Crown. Only 8 horses have won the coveted championship, and it's got away from some of the best.

Triple Crown winners have been Sir Barton, 1919; Gallant Fox, 1930; Omaha, 1935; War Admiral, 1937; Whirlaway, 1941; Count Fleet, 1943; Assault, 1946 and Citation in 1948.

Tim Tam, who won the Derby and Preakness but finished second in the Belmont in 1958, is the latest near miss. Other notable nags who have failed include Man O' War, Round Table, Nashua and Silky Sullivan, of course.

Records Everywhere

1959 was an outstanding year for records. Nearly every track and field mark was equalled or broken and swimmers shattered about everything in sight.

The Nebraska Game Commission also got into the act, honoring 6 state fishing records. Anglers can shoot at these this year:

Largemouth bass—9 pounds, 14 ounces; smallmouth bass—3½ pounds; freshwater drum—19 pounds; northern pike—25¼ pounds; walleye—16 pounds, 1 ounce; buffalo—32 pounds.

Nebraska's oldest record dates back to 1944. Bob Nquist of Broken Bow took a 3¼ pound channel cat and L. Ashbaugh of Wilber a 32-pound buffalo. Morris Sweet of Crete tied the buffalo mark in '59.

Jumping Around

University of the South at Seawee, Tenn., won its first baseball game in 38 years last week, but no one was surprised. The school hadn't fielded a team since 1922.

Outfielder Bill Tuttle of the Kansas City A's is the least superstitious player in the majors. He's the only baseballer wearing No. 13 this year.

If you like sports and want your money's worth try Nebraska's All-Sports Day Saturday. Football, track, tennis and golf are on the menu.

Bruton's 5-For-5 Peps Braves, 5-4

Milwaukee (AP) — Bill Bruton got 5 straight hits, including his first home run of the season, and led the Milwaukee Braves to a 5-4 victory over the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday.

Don McMahon rescued Lew Burdette in the 9th inning to stop a Philly rally after 3 runs had scored and give Burdette his second triumph in 3 decisions.

The Phillies took a 1-0 lead in the first inning on Tony Curry's double, Al Dark's single and a fielder's choice on Ed Bouchee's bouncer.

Bruton sparked the Braves' counterattack. After wasting a double in the first, he singled in the 3rd and scored on Henry Aaron's double, put the Braves ahead for keeps in the 5th with his homer, and started the decisive 3 run rally in the 7th with another single.

Following Bruton's lead-off single in the 7th, Red Schoendienst, Eddie Mathews and Aaron also singled and Frank Torre doubled. The last 3 hits were off reliever Curt Simmons, who failed to retire a man.

Bruton completed his perfect day at bat by singling in the 8th.

The Phillies scored 3 runs in the 9th on Wally Post's single, a walk to Jim Coker, an error by Chuck Cottier, a double by Dave Philley and a single by Curry.

Cleveland (AP) — Cleveland rookies Wynn Hawkins and Dick Stigman went the distance in two triumphs Saturday over Kansas City, defeating the A's 6-4 in the first and 3-1 in the second game.

The victories gave Cleveland a clean sweep here of 4 games against Kansas City.

The A's came within a hair's breadth of turning the tables in the 9th inning of the second game Sunday. Cleveland was leading 3-1, but the A's loaded the bases.

With two out, Ken Johnson hit a high fly to Harvey Kuenn, ending the game.

The top half of the double header was dotted with 5 homers. Two were back-to-back, by Kansas City's Norm Siebern and Whitey Herzog. Siebern also blasted another, his 4th of the season.

But Cleveland's Phillips, 30-year-old infielder, sparked in the first conflict by bringing in 5 runs with two homers, both before Kansas City had gotten a run. They were his first and second of the season.

Juris Jesifers is one of the two top pole vaulters in Nebraska. He's the best high jumper and hurdler in the city.

Knutte Berstis leads city weight men, and the Links have the fastest 880 and two-mile relay quartets in town.

Add To Victory
It all adds up to another city title for the mid-town lads.

The second round of baseball action takes place this week. Lincoln High swept the openers in a couple of tight squeezes.

Southeast is at LHS this afternoon at 4. Wednesday LHS goes to Northeast.

Collins Has 4-Under 68 At Houston

Houston, Tex. (AP) — Towering Bill Collins met the challenge of rising pressure with a 4-under-par 68 Sunday to pull out of a tie with Arnold Palmer and Jack Fleck and take a 2-stroke lead in the $35,000 Houston Classic golf tournament.

Collins' had 205 for 54 holes. Palmer fashioned a 70 to rest securely in second place with 207. Fleck faltered to an even par 72 and dropped to 3rd place at 209.

The 3 started the day with 137 for 36 holes.

Generally scores soared over the 7,122-yard Memorial Park course and the golfers laid it to the greens that had become slick from worn grass.

Miss Crane Still Sought

Hollywood (UPI) — Cheryl Crane, 16-year-old daughter of actress Lana Turner, remained at liberty Sunday after scaling a 12-foot fence to escape from a home for wayward girls Friday night.

Cheryl, who stabbed the actress' underworld lover, Johnny Stompanato, to death two years ago, fled the El Retiro school for girls in suburban Sylmar.

Cheryl had been ordered to the school March 11 because her mother feared she was about to elope with drive-in carhop Martin Gunn, 22.

Cops Calm

Police said that since Cheryl is listed simply as a runaway juvenile no extensive search had been launched for her or the other two girls who fled the home with her.

However, speculation continued that she may have made contact with Martin, who telephoned a fellow employee at the drive-in Saturday and said he would be unable to work.

He said he had suddenly been called out of town. Police said they had been unable to locate him.

Sheridan Baptist Holds Installation For Rev. Hooge

Installation ceremonies for the Rev. John Hooge as pastor of Sheridan Baptist Church were held Sunday with Dr. Arthur Clarke of Omaha, executive secretary of the Nebraska Baptist Convention, officiating.

The Rev. Mr. Hooge, who took over his duties at Sheridan Baptist April 10, succeeds the Rev. Ernest Trapp who resigned to serve at Hermiston, Ore.

The Rev. Herbert Ford, first pastor of Sheridan Baptist and now retired, presided at the afternoon ceremonies.

Also participating in the installation ceremonies were the Rev. Robert Hayden of Second Baptist Church, the Rev. Arthur Slaikeu of First Baptist Church, the Rev. Hugh Crandall of Beatrice.

Church members, Robert Mills Jr., pulpit committee chairman, and congregational hosts, Keith Attebury and James King, represented the congregation at the services.

Police: 'Youth, 17, Admitted Giltner Grocery Theft'

A 17-year-old Lincoln youth admitted to local police Sunday that he and 3 pals broke into and burglarized a Giltner grocery store April 22, according to a police detective.

Thirty-five cartons of cigarettes were taken during the theft, police said.

The youth, who has been living in Grand Island, was questioned about several other grocery-store break-ins but only admitted the Giltner affair, police reported.

Local police questioned the youth after a request from Grand Island police. The other 3 involved were being held in Grand Island, police indicated.

President Ends Damp Camp David Weekend

Washington (AP) — President Eisenhower returned to Washington Sunday afternoon by helicopter after a weekend at his lodge in the Maryland mountains.

Rain washed out the President's plans for a Sunday morning round of golf. The President also canceled plans to attend 8:30 a.m. church services.

Eisenhower and his wife spent the weekend at Camp David, Md., 25 miles from their farm at Gettysburg, Pa.

Tax Petition Campaign Hit By Schwartz

Omaha (AP) — A Democratic Congressional candidate Sunday blasted the current petition campaign underway in Nebraska to secure a sales and income tax.

Gerald Schwartz called it "a join Quinn-led Republican smokescreen to detract from the effectiveness of the Brooks Administration in enforcing current tax laws."

"Quinn is up to his usual tricks, masterminding the so-called confidential poll of Republicans," Schwartz said. "The GOP knows it cannot beat Terry Carpenter in an open primary, just as it couldn't defeat Ralph G. Brooks two years ago in the election."

Quinn is a Lincoln public relations man.

Miss Dietrich Back In Berlin

Berlin (UP) — Marlene Dietrich Sunday, avoided her old haunts on her first day back in Berlin in 15 years.

Most of the places the German-born actress appeared before she went to Hollywood 29 years ago now are in the city's Soviet sector and she said she had no plans to go there.

As for old friends, she said sadly "They are all gone." Miss Dietrich came to West Berlin for a 3-day stage engagement. She opens Tuesday.

It will be her first appearance before a German audience since she started on the road to fame with "The Blue Angel" in 1931.

Switzerland officially uses four languages: German, French, Italian and Romansch. The latter is an Alpine dialect.

Q: What's he doing?
A: Cleaning his engine.

To boost power and mileage,
Engineers say, "Clean up your engine."
Skelly says:

"Why not do it every day ...just by driving"

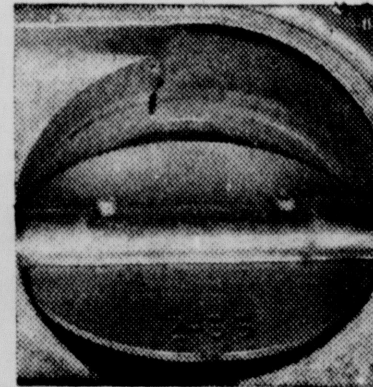

How Keotane works: Carbon and lead deposits steal power and rob you of mileage. Keotane "unglues" carbon and lead, as you drive, by dissolving gluey engine gum. No other oil company has Keotane. Skelly's use of Keotane is covered by U. S. Patent No. 2878109.

Drive Your Carburetor Clean With New Skelly Regular Gasoline:

Dirty, crusty deposits that form rapidly in carburetor throats cause a "too rich" mixture that wastes gasoline. At idling speeds, they can cause your engine to die by choking off its air supply. Restarting wastes more fuel. But new detergent-action Skelly Regular Gasoline with KT-3 dissolves these deposits as you drive. Each time it saves you a carburetor cleaning job, it's like putting $8.50 to $15 right back in your pocket. Over a year's time, this represents about 2c extra value per gallon—besides the fuel it saves. Drive your carburetor clean, at no extra cost, with new detergent-action Skelly Regular Gasoline. See photos at right:

Keotane cleans carburetors, too. As it dissolves gum, your engine may idle faster. Possibly you will want to have your carburetor re-set to take advantage of its new efficiency.

These two unretouched photos of the same carburetor show how new detergent-action Skelly Regular Gasoline can clean up your carburetor as you drive. Try it!

Corn Popular Topic In Saunders County

... LONG WINTER POSES PROBLEM

By Gene Budig
Wahoo—Shuckin' may be months away, but corn remains a popular topic around these parts.
Sparking many a street corner "gab session" are questions like these:
What effect will last winter's heavy snows have on the crop?
Do we stand to have another good year?

Are we due to drop from the state's leading producers?
Vital Questions
The man left to answer many of these vital questions is Saunders County Extension Agent Douglas Duey of Wahoo.
"The heavy snows are bound to hurt us to a certain degree," Duey assured, "but it's too early to tell."

It is felt generally that the heavy snows have set back the corn planting timetable several weeks.
"But we're rapidly catching up with things," Duey chipped in.
Farmers are now working extra long shifts to prepare the fields for planting.
"There's a great deal of plowing and fertilizing going on in Saunders County right now," he noted.
With the snows, however, has come one major compensation—moisture.
"We have plenty of good moisture," Duey declared. Recent tests show that good moisture goes 6 inches down from top soil.

No Predictions
The county agriculture worker believes that if things go as expected, Saunders County will have another good corn crop.
But he refused to make any predictions.
It is doubtful if the 1960 corn yields will near the county's record of 66 bushels per acre set in 1958.
Last year Saunders County had an average of 55 bushels per acre.
"It is important to remember that we've had over 50 inches of snowfall this winter, compared to about half this total in 1958 and '59," Duey said.

Collective bargaining contracts such as this refute the ridiculous claim by Premier Nikita Khrushchev that our grandchildren will be living in a Communist system," Biene said. "In America, labor and management recognize their great stake in our Democratic way of life."
Biene said the contract sets a pattern that will be followed by Bell units in every part of the country.
"Economically and socially, it is impossible to minimize the significance of this pattern-setting contract, which this year will bring an estimated $130,000,000 in benefits to Bell Telephone Company employees throughout America."

Each citizen of the state has a vital role to fulfill in promoting the growth of the state, Conrad noted.
The conference drew veterans from 8 Nebraska counties and 15 communities.
"The development of new industrial uses for farm products will have an immediate impact upon the economy of the state," Conrad told the group.
"Each of you will share in the fruits of the state's industrial growth," the Democratic gubernatorial candidate said.

Hartington — Nebraska is on the threshold of "a new era," Robert B. Conrad told a district meeting of the Veterans of Foreign Wars here Sunday.

Telephone Agreement Hailed By CWA Chief

Omaha (U) — The president of the Communications Workers of America Sunday hailed a new 3-year agreement with the Northwestern Bell Telephone Co. as a "challenging reply by free labor and free management to false propaganda emanating this May Day" from leaders of Communism.

SUMMER PRESS MEETS SLATED

The June 18 meeting will be held at Ord with Ord newspapermen Kerry and Gene Leggett hosting.

The Northeast District will hold its meeting at Hartington July 16. Fred Zimmer of the Cedar County News at Hartington is the host.

Cunningham Hits PO For Overuse Of Air Traffic

Washington (UPI) — The experiment of air-lifting regular letter mail is cheating the Post Office, hurting railroads and jeopardizing future mail deliveries, Rep. Glenn Cunningham (R-Neb) said Sunday.

Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield "has been going hog wild" on the experiment, Cunningham said in an interview. He said railroads will be forced to discontinue passenger trains on a wholesale basis unless the practice is halted.

Cunningham is sponsor of a bill specifying that only mail bearing Air Mail postage be carried by plane.

"Bad Condition"
"I'm not favorable to one form of transportation over another," he said, "but the railroads are in a bad financial condition now, and if this policy goes on they will have to discontinue more trains."

Congress authorized the postmaster 6 years ago to send regular mail by plane if space were available.

But this was to be an experiment, Cunningham said and was not intended as permission to establish a new policy.

He quoted a House appropriations subcommittee report last February recommending that "there be no extension of the airlift until the Congress has taken legislative action on the question."

When Grounded
The Post Office still relies on railroads for mail deliveries when planes are grounded by weather, he said. During winter storms last February and March, he said, 195,500 pounds of mail were diverted from planes to trains.

"Summerfield was just fortunate they were there," Cunningham said. "But they won't be if this airlift continues."

Cunningham did not favor additional subsidies to airlines in general and to Capital, which has appealed for additional government help to survive its present financial troubles, in particular.

"Better Get Out"

"If they can't make a go of it, they'd better get out of the business," he said.

Cunningham said the government already "coddles" airlines by building their airports, conducting much necessary research in planes, installing radar towers and providing mail subsidies.

Southeast Nebraska Bureau
Fairbury — Funeral services for J. Boyd Page, 64, Fairbury postmaster, will be at 2 p.m. Tuesday at the First Presbyterian Church.

Formerly employed by the State Division of Motor Fuels, he died unexpectedly at his home. He had been local postmaster since 1956.

Survivors include his wife, Esther, daughter Mrs. Robert Kort of Glendale, Ariz., and two grandchildren.

The family suggests memorials to a fund established at the Fairbury First Presbyterian Church. The body will lie in state prior to the service.

A steenbok is a small African antelope. Many African natives call it the dik-dik, pronounced Dick-Dick. It is extremely fast in running and leaping, a difficult target for a hunter.
